Aeronautical Institute Elects D. C. Scientist

Election of Frank W. Caldwell, director of research of United Aircraft Corp., East Hartford, Conn., as president for 1941 of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences was announced today.

Charles H. Colvin, chief of the instrument division of the Weather Bureau, was one of four vice presidents elected, others being W. A. M. Burden of National Aviation Corp., New York, which owns and operates Washington Airport; Hall L. Hibbard, Lockheed Aircraft Corp., and Philip G. Johnson, president and general manager of Boeing Aircraft Co.

Lester D. Gardner, formerly president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, with offices here, was elected executive vice president; Grover Loening, treasurer, and C. E. Sinclair, secretary.

Mr. Caldwell received the Sylvanus Albert Reed Award for 1935 in recognition of his contributions to the development and improvement of controllable and constant speed propellers for aircraft. He is a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and during the World War was in charge of propeller development for the Army Air Service. The new officers will be inducted in New York January 28 by Maj. James H. Doolittle, retiring president.

THEY'LL HELP CELEBRATE—Among those contributing to the entertainment at tomorrow night's New Year Eve festivities at the local night clubs will be Bob and Betty Brown, dancing at the Del Rio; the Three Gay Blades, at the Shoreham Blue Room; Renee and Root, who will be at the Wardman Park Hotel; and Vova and Bajan, who bring back to the Club Troika their popular marionette sketch, "Vanka Tanka."
